

BRITISH WARSHIPS READY TO CRUSH IRISH REBELLION

Police Barracks Wrecked by Bomb Explosion—England
Will Use Armed Force.

LONDON, April 2.—British warships arrived off Belfast Wednesday night, according to the Evening News. The newspaper interpreted the movement as part of the Government preparations to prevent the reported plans for an uprising during the Easter holiday, adding that the vessels might be used for transfer of Sinn Féin prisoners to English jails.

Police barracks at Clonouilly, Ireland, were raided Wednesday night, the newspaper said, and wrecked by bomb explosions. There were no casualties. Police retaliated with raids throughout Kilkenny during the morning, making several arrests.

Irish Newspapers Attack Home Rule Plan.

DUBLIN, April 2.—The apparent assured success of Prime Minister Lloyd George's new Home Rule bill and charges in the London press that Thomas MacCurran, Lord Mayor of Cork recently assassinated, was killed by the Sinn Féin because of treachery, had aroused a fresh storm of protest here to-day against British rule in Ireland.

Newspapers were unanimous in their attack upon the Prime Minister's new plan for Home Rule, emphasizing the point that Ireland herself was being given no voice in the matter, although she was the one most vitally affected.

One hundred armed men raided the residence of the High Sheriff of Galway Wednesday night, demanding certain land reforms. When the Sheriff refused they dragged him toward a lake, threatening to drown him. He finally capitulated.

England Will Use Force to Carry Out Plans.

LONDON, April 2.—The appointment of General Nevil Macready to be head of the military forces in Ireland and the resignation of Ian MacPherson, Irish Secretary in the Prime Minister's Cabinet, are pointed to to-day as proof that the Government intends to carry through its Irish programme without hesitation. MacPherson, it is said, was not willing to accede to some of the radical measures planned to quiet Ireland.

The Government, in the opinion of well informed observers, is prepared to "go the limit" to make the Prime Minister's plan a success, even erecting a barrier of bayonets between Ulster and the Sinn Féin districts if necessary to prevent interference with the Unionist Parliament.

Gen. Macready has departed for Ireland. It was declared authoritatively he planned to use the "underground police system" perfected by Scotland Yard to stop activities of the Irish terrorists. Civilian police will replace the military, which will be reduced as soon as possible.
